It would be interesting to know if they are recovering LNAPL from the wells they are pumping. Maybe Steve could ask them next time he is out there?

Wayne,

Attached is a summary of my site visit to the Former Williams AFB on Wednesday, May 2. Nothing too exciting. They had just completed well WILPMW002 and were going to start construction. WILPMW008 was halted for rig maintenance. I observed drilling for a while after repairs were made, then went to ST012 to check on the status there.
